KORTH GRADUATES FROM ADVANCED AGRICULTURAL LENDING SCHOOL

Press Release | May 16th, 2017

Laurel - Teri Korth, Loan Officer with Security Bank, recently completed the 2017 Advanced Agricultural Lending School. This three-day School was held May 9-11, in Manhattan, Kansas. The Advanced Agricultural Lending School is sponsored by the Kansas and Nebraska Bankers Associations and is endorsed by the Colorado, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Wyoming Bankers Associations.

Particularly unique to this School is the learning environment. Two active producer families were on-site for the School to interact with the students and share their own perspectives on everything from future trends in agriculture to growth in lender relationships. Continual peer interaction and analysis of real-life case studies were also unique elements of the School.

Teri began her career with Security Bank in June of 2007 as a Customer Service Representative, then transitioned to Administrative Assistant in 2008, and transitioned once again in 2013 to Personal Banker. Then in the spring of 2015, Teri made her most recent move to her current position as loan officer.

Prior to joining Security Bank, Teri obtained an accounting degree from Northeast Community College in 2004 while working at an accounting firm. She has since returned to Northeast Community College and completed a degree in rural Ag Banking in the Spring of 2015.

Teri was raised in Randolph. Teri and her husband, Travis, have three boys, Carter, Connor, and Dayton. Outside of banking she enjoys baking, helping her husband farm, and spending time with friends and family.
